

Jr. Software Programmer

Intellicheck Mobilisa is a publicly-traded technology company located in Jericho, NY with over 20 year of experience developing software and mobile solutions for the defense, hospitality, law enforcement and retail markets. Our identification authentication and validation technologies make it possible for our customers to enhance the awareness and safety of their facilities and people, improve customer service, and increase operational efficiencies.

We are currently seeking a dynamic, high-energy and experienced Jr. Software Programmer to join our team. The Jr. Software Programmer will participate in the execution of our technological road map and will be responsible for Product Development. This position reports directly to Russ Embry, Chief Technology Officer and involves close collaboration with fellow members of Intellicheck's software development team and Intellicheck's business development unit.

Responsibilities:

- Creation and modification of software programs.
- This position requires good planning, time management and organizational skills.

Qualifications:

- B.S. in Computer Science (minimum)
- Problem Solving
- Software Coding, Debugging and Testing
- Software Algorithm Design
- Software Design Documentation
- Software Performance Tuning
- Software Maintenance
- Candidate must be strongly detail-oriented and possess excellent communication skills.
- Candidate must work well with others in a supportive team environment.
- Candidate must be able to pass background check and drug screening

We Offer:

- Competitive salary
- 401k match 50% up to 6% of salary
- Excellent benefits for employees and their families
- Equity incentives
- Flexible and friendly work environment
- Business-casual dress environment

How to Apply:

Applications are accepted using our online application process only. Please submit your cover letter and resume to employment@intelllicheck.com